MESSAGE FROM THE CHAIRMAN AND PRESIDENT

Ed Rogowski
Chairman

In 1935, a group of United Air Lines employees came together to create a financial cooperative with the purpose of providing a safe place to save and borrow at fair rates. Much has changed in the 80 years since, both in the financial services marketplace and at Alliant. What hasn't changed is Alliant's member-focused mission:

To provide members with consistently superior financial value and friendly, efficient, personalized service.

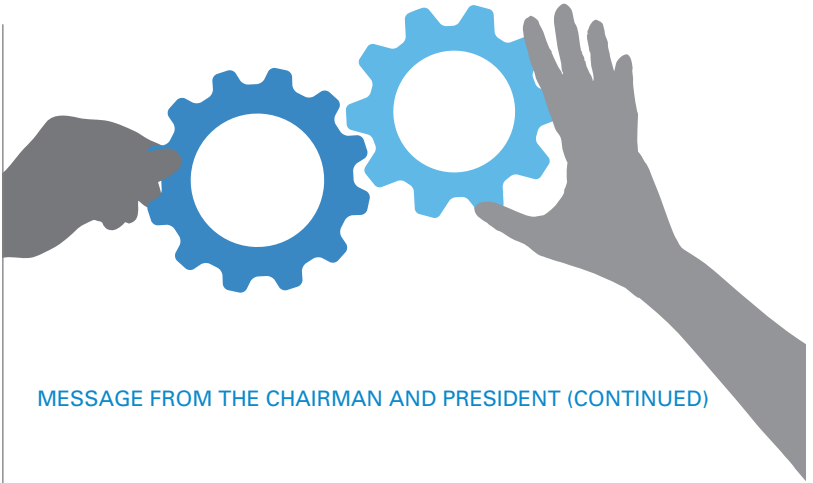

David W. Mooney
President/Treasurer

Throughout its history, Alliant has been known for its high liquid savings rates. These returns were achieved by investing the bulk of our assets in low-risk, fixed-income securities and keeping expenses extremely low through a combination of limited offerings, closed field of membership, an efficient operating model and frugality. The Credit Union resembled a money market fund, providing savings yields that paralleled short-term market interest rates.

While for many years the approach had served the Credit Union and its members well, economic disruption and market developments in the past two decades revealed its vulnerabilities.

First, high quality fixed income investments produce relatively low yields, particularly in low interest rate environments. The proposition was also heavily skewed in favor of savers; the Credit Union wasn't serving the needs of its many borrowing members. Finally, members expected convenience and service, including 24/7 telephone access, ubiquitous ATMs, and online and mobile banking services.

More recently, Alliant has balanced the proposition between savers and borrowers and increased its lending to members, with benefits to both. All things equal, Alliant earns more from a loan than from an investment, producing more income to support dividends. Loans grew by 18% in 2014, reaching $4.8 billion at year-end. Reversing the trend of the past several years, Alliant's average yield on earning assets increased by 0.48%. This drove a 24% increase in interest income, supporting savings and Certificate rate increases later in the year.

Alliant's "giveback" to members remains in the 95th percentile of credit unions nationally. During 2014, our savings dividend was more than five times the bank and credit union average, and borrowing rates were consistently among the best in the market. We know that members are increasingly comparing our rates to those offered by "direct" (internet) banks. While Alliant won't always beat those providers, we are committed to offering comparable returns.

Alliant has also made sizeable investments in enhancing convenience and service. In 2004, we added 24/7 call center availability, and since then have continued to upgrade phone systems and capabilities. Alliant was one of the first financial institutions to offer remote image deposit service. We have continued to expand online and mobile functionality, and have initiatives underway to upgrade our website and mobile banking service. We offer a network of over 80,000 surcharge-free ATMs, and recently introduced ATM Rebates. We've started implementation of a Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system and new consumer loan origination system to support improved service delivery. And we continue to make numerous infrastructure investments to improve functionality, reliability and security.

That is not to say that we have abandoned our low-cost strategy. We recognize that low operating costs are a valuable financial and strategic advantage. Alliant's operating expenses as a percentage of assets are still more than 60% below those of the average bank and credit union.

Alliant's members are justified in expecting a lot from us. We are a cooperative institution whose only purpose is to serve the interests of you and all our member-owners. We realize you have many alternative providers to choose from. As we enter our 80th year, we remain committed to earning your business by providing exceptional value and service.

Alliant Highlights of 2014

Financial

- Alliant raised the savings dividend from 0.70% APY to 0.80% APY in October. Throughout 2014, our savings dividend averaged 59 basis points higher than the credit union average, up from a 56 basis point advantage in 2013
- Introduced ATM Rebates, providing members with significant savings and enhanced convenience
- Originated over $2.3 billion in loans, 21% more than in 2013
- Savings deposits declined by 1% from 2013. Certificate deposits were down 9% as savers favored liquid deposits in anticipation of rising rates
- Checking balances grew by a healthy 8%
- Interest income increased by $38.6 million, or 24% from 2013. The yield on interest earning assets increased by 48 basis points year-over-year, reflecting a shift in mix from lower yielding investments to higher yielding loans
- Non-interest income, excluding securities gains and losses, increased by 3% to $19.5 million
- Total assets ended the year at $8.1 billion, slightly down from 2013 year-end
- Net loan balances at year-end were $4.8 billion, an increase of $721 million or 18% from 2013
- Loan-to-share ratio stood at 71.3% at year-end, up from 60.1% in 2013, and 47.5% in 2012
- Net income was $70.5 million, $30.8 million or 78% above 2013
- The net worth ratio stood at 11.32% at year-end, up from 10.42% at year-end 2013
- Non-interest expenses of $85.3 million were 5% greater than in 2013, driven by higher consumer lending volumes and accelerated spending on strategic initiatives and foundational investments
- Provision for loan losses of $11.1 million was 19% higher than in 2013, continuing to reflect a benign credit environment. Loan delinquency and charge-off rates remained below credit union and bank industry averages
- Alliant remained above the 95th percentile in efficiency among credit unions after seeing operating expense/assets increase to 1.11% for full year 2014, from 0.99% for 2013

Non-Financial

- Once again, Alliant earned the highest ratings for safety and soundness in state and federal regulatory examinations
- Total membership grew by 1%, to 283,085, as we welcomed 23,048 new members
- Added 21 new sponsors (Select Employer Groups) representing 350,000 employees
- Continued to enhance Alliant's digital capabilities, including implementing a device registration process to speed member login to Alliant Online Banking, enhancing personal information screens and introducing email verification
- Made substantial progress in our multi-year effort to modernize Alliant's legacy technology infrastructure
- Introduced member reviews on the public website
- Launched a blog with social sharing capabilities that has attracted more than 88,000 page views since its launch in April
- Implemented the Net Promoter Score measurement and feedback system to give us the ability to gather instant member feedback and quickly respond
- Updated our phone system so it now includes voice recognition, allowing us to improve the efficiency and effectiveness of our 24/7 phone service
- Began implementing a Customer Relationship Management (CRM) system and processes
- Named to the Honor Roll of the Center for Companies That Care for the third consecutive year in recognition of Alliant's workplace practices and community involvement

Looking ahead to 2015 and beyond

As we enter our 80th year, delivering on the Alliant Mission is our guiding light. We are committed to earning our members' trust and business by listening to their financial goals and challenges, and providing exceptional financial value and personal service. Looking ahead, our future is bright. By investing in digital technology and system infrastructure, and pushing for innovations in our products and member service, we will sustain the Alliant Mission into 2015 and beyond.
